THE STAR RECOGNISED AS A GLOBAL LEADER IN SUSTAINABILITY

The Star Entertainment Group has been honoured as the most sustainable gaming and casino operator in the world at a gala event in London.

The Industry Community Awards ceremony was hosted digitally and gave recognition to casino and gaming companies from around the globe.

Amanda Visser, Head of Sustainability for The Star Entertainment Group said: “We’re delighted to receive the Sustainable Business Award for industry operators. To be acknowledged as the world’s most sustainable gaming and casino operator is a huge honour.

“It reflects The Star’s ongoing commitment to sustainability, and ensuring it is central to our operations and embedded across all levels of the business.

“We strive to have a positive impact on the cities in which we operate, and will continue to work with our team members, local communities and stakeholders to ensure we deliver these positive outcomes.”

About The Industry Community Awards: The awards recognises the outstanding work companies have done in helping others within their business and externally within the wider community, supporting colleagues, key workers and local health workers in fighting a pandemic that has devastated communities and livelihoods. The judging panel comprised of 15 judges from across health care, social care, mental health and community support workers, while submissions were blind, removing company and nominee details and unconscious bias.
